Cool Wave Is Enjoyed Here

No Moisture But Cool Days and Nights Help Over the Panhandle Section

Showers Tuesday night amounted to .08 of an inch. There was considerable electricity during the showers, but no real moisture over the county.

Another week passes without moisture. But the Panhandle has enjoyed plenty of cool weather during this period of time.

The temperature Friday afternoon was 100 degrees, the highest point of the summer. A cool wave came in from the north and the temperature dropped to 50 degrees Friday night.

Summer staged a come back Saturday and Sunday, but another cool wave struck the Plains Monday, dropping the temperature again to 50 degrees on Monday.

The weatherman promises real summer weather for the balance of the week—but no rain.

Recreation Club Offers Swimming and Other Sports

Coach W. W. Nicklaus announces that enrollment in the Canyon Recreation Club is increasing with every meeting. The boys swim every Tuesday and Thursday from 11:00 to 12:00 o'clock.

Glenn Stoddard is instructing the boys in swimming. He now has one class of about 30 non-swimmers and about the same number in another class of advanced swimmers. Stoddard is a fine instructor and any boy that wishes to learn to swim should enroll in the recreation club.

On Wednesday and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 the club meets at the Buffalo Stadium where they are put through a program of games and exercises. Hoss Bledsoe is working with this group. The boys have track meets, play soft ball, touch ball, basketball and other recreational games.

Coach Nicklaus and Bledsoe invite and urge any boy interested in joining the recreation to be sure to report to either of them.

This program is a fine opportunity for any boy between the ages of 8 to 14 inclusive to get in a good summer of recreation.

This club is sponsored for the benefit of the boys of Canyon and Randall County. Coach Nicklaus is the sponsor and director and Glenn Stoddard and Hoss Bledsoe are the two assistants.

Emma L. Boatman Died Saturday Home of Daughter

Herschel Coffee Accepts Position With W L B

Professor Herschel Coffee, who had made tentative plans earlier in the year to attend the University of Texas and also accept a teaching position there during the summer, changed his mind at the last minute and accepted an administrative position with the War Labor Board in Denver, Colo.

This board is operating under the Civil Service and offers an excellent position. Mr. Coffee will return to West Texas State about mid-September to resume his teaching position.

Wheat Loan Values Are Set By Commodity Credit Corporation

The Commodity Credit Corporation has announced the loan program for 1945 wheat. Most of the details of the program are the same as used last year. There are however a few changes. One of these changes is the manner of paying storage on farm stored loan wheat.

This year storage will not be added to the loan value of the wheat but will be paid by Commodity Credit Corporation at the time of delivery of wheat to the Corporation in case wheat is delivered in satisfaction on the loan. On account of this change farm storage loans will be made at the local net rate.

According to information received in the county office the rate for wheat stored in Galveston, with freight and charges paid, is to be $1.62. This is for No. 1 hard winter or dark hard winter wheat.

A wire received in the county office June 19 indicates that the local rate for No. 1 in farm storage or country elevator storage will be $1.37.

The Galveston rate is 3c above last year and the Randall county rate is 2c above. The procedure for loans is to be similar to last year. The discount for wheat below No. 1 has not been decided or at least this information is not yet in the county office.

Landlords and lienholders waivers are required the same as last year.

State Is Making Street Repairs

Work is being started in Canyon this week to repair the streets. The city needs several men for this work, stated Mayor W. A. Warren.

Work will be started on Second Avenue. Holes in the pavement will be repaired, and a new topping run. Materials have been placed along this avenue, and machinery is available to the city for this work.

The work will continue on other streets as rapidly as possible. A wet winter would badly damage this type of paving.

Motor License Due By First July

All automobiles must have the new federal stamp on the windshield, or in other prominent place, by the 1st of July.

This federal stamp costs the owner $5. In years past federal agents have checked cars to make sure that all owners have bought the new stamp and those who failed have paid a penalty.

Court House Is Greatly Changed By Improvements

The court house is much improved in looks as the face-lifting process continues.

Pointing the stone and brick work on the building has been completed. The windows are being recorked and tightened. A coat of water-proofing has been put on the stone work, which is to be followed by a coat of paint. Painting has been done on the stone work at the top part of the building, which greatly improves the looks of the building.

The roofing material was shipped on the 13th and should be here any day.

Probably the greatest improvement on the building will be adding new down spouts to take care of flood water. These spouts are being made in Oklahoma City. They are made of galvanized iron and will be bolted to the outside of the building. The present down spouts are in the wall of the building, and when any of them are clogged up water overflows into the building. The new down spouts will be painted after being attached to the court house.

Sgt. Risner Is Stationed Near Berchtesgaden

S-Sgt. James R. Risner who is with the Glider Infantry now stationed at Berchtesgaden, Germany writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Risner:

Everything is very nice around here: trees, grass, mountains continually snow crowned. The air is cool at all times. This place is the most beautiful I have seen. It is known as Hitler's hide-out. His hide-out is up on top of a mountain. There isn't much left to look at up there any more. Everything has been blasted.

We have a lake here to go boating and swimming. To go on my patrol I had to go by boat for a long way. We stopped every so often to take a swim. It was somewhat hot to row the seven miles.

I hate to tell you, but don't look for me home for some time. Why? Your guess is as good as mine.

New City Well Has Saved Water Supply For Canyon During Drouth

The new city well has saved the water situation in Canyon during the drouth. The capacity of the old wells totalled about 450,000 gallons per day. The consumption of water has jumped as high as 800,000 gallons per day, with an average of 600,000 daily consumption. The old plant could not have furnished this large volume of water. The college has had no surplus for the city as has been the practice of other years.

The capacity of the new well is 750 gallons per minute, or 45,000 gallons per day. This new well alone will produce much more water than is daily consumed in Canyon. However the other wells are used to keep them in condition.

All these men expect to be in Canyon this week end.

Sgt. D. Schaeffer Is Home After 2 Years in India

S-Sgt. Dean Schaeffer arrived at the home of his mother, Mrs. George Schaeffer, Thursday night, for a 45 day visit at home. Sgt. Schaeffer has spent two years in the India-Burma-China Theatre. He is a member of radio maintenance crew in the Air Corps.

Sgt. Schaeffer says that his group stayed one jump ahead of the advance of the Japanese when they were advancing in the early stages of the War and then they kept up with the push back.

Food in his field of service consisted of too much rice cooked as the Chinese like it. His first purchase of food in New York was the usual buy of returnees, a quart of milk. At his first meal in U. S. were men who were leaving the states for the first time. They were gripping about the meal. Schaeffer declares it was the best he ever ate. "Difference in viewpoint," he says.

Leaving his post on the 5th of May, Sgt. Schaeffer hoped to be home soon, but he was detained 16 days in India, waiting for a plane. He flew all the way and will fly back to his home assignment after his furlough.

Mrs. W. T. Davis and sister-in-law, Mrs. L. E. Hodges, went to Weatherford, Texas, Friday to be with Mrs. Davis' mother, Mrs. Frank Hurst, who is ill. Mrs. Hurst remained in Weatherford for a few days.

Wheat Better Than Estimate

Harvest Is Going On In All Sections of the County This Week

Henry J. Meyer and M. B. Brown were the first Randall county farmers to bring in their wheat to the elevators in Canyon. Both brought in loads Thursday afternoon. Mr. Meyer sold his wheat to the Consumers Elevator, and Mr. Brown to the Farmers Elevator.

The test on the first wheat was low as the wheat was a little too green. However, wheat that is coming in this week is testing 59 to 60. The price ranged yesterday up to $1.45 per bushel.

Wheat is making a much better yield than was predicted two or three weeks ago. Mr. Brown stated that his summer fallow wheat will make around 16 bushels to the acre, while his other wheat will make about 8 bushels which is near a normal yield for the county.

While hail did much damage last week, wheat farmers report that some of the fields which they considered almost a total loss is now making about 5 bushels to the acre. There were a few places in the county where the loss is actually a total loss, but these areas are small.

Roger Gist reported a peculiar circumstance following the hail at his place. There the hail was small and cut the wheat stalks without knocking them down. When the wind came up Friday and Saturday much of these stalks broke off because of the hail damage.

Practically all sections of the county started cutting this week. The northwest section of the county is usually a week later than the southern section, but combines were running in all sections by Tuesday.

Harvest hands are coming in from the South Plains where farm work is at a standstill because of the continued dry weather. Hands are being placed daily at the office of County Agent W. H. Upchurch, but there is still a shortage of approximately 50 men.

Car shortages on the railroads are already developing. It is not yet revealed just how serious this shortage will be before the end of harvest.

Australian Wife Is Learning Ways of the Americans

Going quietly about learning to be really American is Mrs. L. E. Hurst, wife of Lieutenant (j. g.) Hurst, who is a brother of Mrs. W. T. Davis.

Mrs. Hurst is an Australian who has been married to Lt. Hurst three years, has been in the United States two years and is now making her home with Mrs. Davis while Lt. Hurst is at sea.

Lt. Hurst was in the Philippines at the outbreak of the war. He was spirited away with his ship just before the fall of Manila. They went to Java then by various stops to Perth, Australia, where he met and married Miss Mary Haines.

Mrs. Hurst says that the difference in customs that is still perplexing is driving on the right hand side of the road. Rationing is an old thing to her. Clothing was rigidly rationed as was tea, coffee and sugar before she left Australia. Now everything is rationed there.

Before coming to Canyon Mrs. Hurst lived with her husband in Pensacola, Florida. Having had the third visa to leave Australia, and being about the first Australian wife to land in the states, she was amazed to meet in Pensacola a girl from her home town. She said, "No, we had never known each other in Australia, but it was like meeting an old, old friend."

"Everyone in America seems to know how to type; therefore I am enrolled in a typing course at West Texas State. Although I would not have wanted my instructor to see the letter, I wrote my husband on the typewriter after my fifth lesson," said Mrs. Hurst, giving her attitude about living in America.

Two brothers of Mrs. Hurst are in the Australian Armed Forces, both in the European Theatre. One brother was a prisoner of Germany for 18 months. News of his release has been received since she has been living in Canyon. The other has been and still is in the Mediterranean Area and has been away from home for six years.

Editorials

WHO IS RIGHT?

The News runs hot and then cold on the question of compulsory military training. Just about the time we make up our mind to support the issue, some one comes along with a sure fire argument against this type of training.

We wish we knew what was right. And we are of the opinion that fully a hundred million citizens of the United States feel just the same way. The balance of the population are definitely lined up, pro and against military training.

It is not so bad to be in the vast majority which cannot decide which way is best. That has been the situation since this Republic was founded.

From observation, we believe that the opponents of compulsory training are more vocal in their position, and take the firmer stand. They may be wrong, but they have popular opinion backing for their statement that the nation is better off without this form of militarism.

Those who favor this training point to the two world wars, which have occurred under the system which the opponents are lauding. They claim that America would have been whipped before we could get started without such strong Allies.

Personally, we believe that both factions are honest in their opinions, and that all citizens are seeking the best method of heading off another world war. A free and full discussion of the problems may provoke sound reasoning which will bring forth a plan that will keep the peace. This is the ultimate goal.

The News has received a copy of the political newspaper, State Observer, which was mailed from Clovis, Paul Holcomb, its editor, is on the warpath against those who opposed a fourth term for Roosevelt. He is demanding that all such voters be expelled from the Democratic party. Fine work, old boy! You are a great hero, but considerable short of common sense. President Truman is Chief Executive today in spite of the will of such fellows as Holcomb, who could see nothing but New Dealers. His god was Wallace. The revolt of level headed Democrats is the only thing which kept Wallace from being President today. Bob Hannagan told Roosevelt the truth when, after a national tour, he reported to the President that the people would not swallow Wallace. Today we have Truman. Is he following the Holcomb brand of politics? Far from that. He is trying to restore peace and harmony in the nation, rather than stir up political rows. He has called upon the people for a united program, and is getting almost unanimous backing—except Holcomb. Sidney Hillman and a few other such individuals.

A daughter of Woodrow Wilson has tried to create some excitement by announcing that Wilson admitted before his death that it was best that America rejected the League of Nations. The nation has been under the impression for 25 years that Wilson was a martyr for the League. If Wilson ever changed his mind about the League, his family was not honest with the nation by withholding this fact. Or is the Wilson daughter seeking a grandstand seat with those who may try to scuttle the present United Nations agreement?

The House of Representatives has again passed the bill to repeal the payment of a poll tax as a requisite for voting. It is now up to the Senate. It is likely that we shall again see a filibuster raging in the Senate for weeks in order to put the bill in cold storage. That is a poor method of settling political issues. Since a majority of the states and the people within the nation are opposed to the poll tax as an implement of voting, the few states which follow this practice had as well be resigned to their fate.

The Republicans are going to try to kill the provision which allows the President to lower tariffs. Fundamentally tariffs are purely selfish and work out for the benefit of small groups. The big manufacturers try to hold stiff tariffs on the things which they ship abroad, but have low tariffs on the raw materials which are shipped in. Most of us are entirely too selfish to be reasonable when it comes to the tariff.

FOUR MONTHS WORK—WANT PAY FOR 24

Memphis Democrat: We've never served in the Legislature. But, we heartily agree with Clyde Warwick, editor of the Canyon News, who served the Amarillo-Canyon district for several terms, that legislators are out of line in the salary increase they have voted for themselves. It is a proposed constitutional amendment which voters will either approve or reject at a special election in August.

The Democrat has nothing "against" any member of the Legislature or the lawmaking body as a whole. It appreciates the fact that members do a lot more work than they get credit for in the public's mind. Many of them work long hours and at nights on committees, whereas the public pictures them as meeting in short morning sessions or not meeting at all on some days. We appreciate further that Legislators lose many of their clients at home, particularly if they are professional men, and that serving at Austin only for a few months during a two year term jeopardizes their income at home. We don't think they receive sufficient pay, but the proposal they have asked the people of Texas to approve is in our opinion outside the bounds of reason.

Legislators now draw $10 per day for the regular 120-day session and $5 a day for the extra 30-day session, such as the one now ending. Thus, we have them in Austin only five months in the two-year period, unless there is an emergency demanding a special session, which is the exception rather than the rule. Using the past session as an example, and assuming that there will be no special session, the Legislators will receive approximately $1,350 for the five month's session. Obviously that does not meet the standards of fair pay to public servants.

Under the proposed constitutional amendment, however, they would raise their own pay from $1,350 to $7,300 for a two year term. The plan is to put themselves on a full-time salary of $10 a day. Thus, in a two-year term they would draw pay for 730 days and might not be in session but 120 days, the length of the regular session, or possibly not more than 150 days as in the case of the session just ended.

A raise of $6,000 or approximately 500 per cent over their present scale of pay, is too much of a jump. We think, too, that paying them for what time they are not in session is a bad precedent; at least it is not one which is followed by any other employers known to us. A Legislator, like anyone else, who seeks and accepts a job, should be paid for what time he is on the job, and paid well; if he isn't working, he shouldn't be paid. Paying a man for 24 months when he is hired for four isn't the fair or proper way to handle the salary problem for members of the Legislature.

Congress has another Roosevelt problem on its hands. Again it is Elliott, so-called General Roosevelt. It is charged that he borrowed $200,000 from an influential business man and has settled the debt for $4,000. The lender charged off the difference on his income tax. Just how many other young men could borrow such a huge sum of money; and where is the man who would want to settle his debts by such a trifle?

The nation accepted the axiom of Lincoln that the nation could not survive, half free and half slave. The British Empire is beginning to realize that the same holds true with that empire. India and much of the other Asiatic and African possessions of the Empire have virtually been British slaves. The election in England may be a splendid thing for the peoples who have been under British domination.

The government has been trying to get people to cut out unnecessary travel on the railroads. A drastic step will be taken by withdrawing half of the Pullmans from civilians, and reducing other passenger cars by 10%. That may or may not keep people at home who have no business chasing around the country.

COMPLETING HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM AT CANYON

Panhandle Herald: The Panhandle-Plains Historical Society is probably the greatest regional historical society in the United States. No regional historical society has a museum in keeping with that at Canyon on the campus of West Texas State College.

Some years ago the people of this area contributed to a building fund. The state added some money to the people's fund and the first unit of the museum was built.

During the depression a start was made on a second unit. The frame work was built and the people brought in truck loads of common brick. The war naturally prevented any building program.

Voluntary contributions of more than $10,000.00 have been made for the second unit. Directors of the historical society have set a goal of $60,000.00 to complete the museum. With $10,000.00 already contributed, the society will seek an additional $50,000.00 within the next few months.

H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo will be campaign chairman. Carson county will be asked to contribute to this campaign to complete the museum. The extra space will enable the display of the wonderful collection of art, pottery, tapestry and other items presented by Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell.

It will also enable the proper display of the more than 300 guns presented by O. T. Nicholson, Shamrock banker. Nicholson by the way will buy any historical guns or rifles in Carson county. He has heart in making the collection as complete as possible.

While the Panhandle country is reasonably young is the time to pay attention to the collection of its history and the preservation of its relics.

The historical society, organized in 1923, has played a remarkable part. Its first president was Judge O. H. Nelson, one of the founders of Panhandle.

No county in the Panhandle has a more interesting history than Carson with its pioneers. As the junction at first of the Santa Fe and Fort Worth & Denver City Railroads, as the home of the first bank and as the city with the oldest surviving pioneer newspaper—it should be interested in building a great historical society and museum.

When chairman Pipkin gets ready to wage his campaign, Carson county should be among the first to contribute to the museum fund.

The Society has done much for the preservation of ranch history. Carson county has had some of the great ranches with the Burnett 6666 ranch one of the four or five greatest in Northwest Texas.

Begin planning now what you will do to help this great cause. Let's make the great Panhandle-Plains museum a still greater museum with your gifts.

PAY THE PIPER

A Welch preacher was talking to his congregation about salvation. Finally his sermon was finished, and then he said: "Now, then, Brother Smith, will you take up the collection, please?"

At this point an old man got up and started for the door, saying, "Parson, I thought you said salvation was free—free as the water we drink."

"Well, brother," replied the preacher, "salvation is free and water is free, but when we pipe it to you, you have to pay for the piping."

REPARTEE

It was during a big bargain sale and tempers were rising.

"If I were trying to match politeness," said the woman customer, glaring at the salesgirl, "I'd have a hard time finding it here."

"Will you kindly let me see your sample, madam?" the salesgirl replied.

The 1945 goal in milk production for Texas, is nearly four and one billion pounds of milk.

Twenty Years to Go

By ELEANOR WALSH
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

MARION WILSON looked through her desk drawers that morning for the last time to make sure they were empty. She glanced briskly about the private office, which she rated as executive secretary to Mr. Swift, and saw that no relic of the many years she had spent there remained. Only on the desk itself was there anything of hers, a glass paper weight, and this she put in her handbag. Then she walked into Mr. Swift's office. She felt shaky, after all these years, as if she had come to ask for a job, not to give one up.

Mr. Swift grinned. "Well, Miss Wilson, so you're still set on it, eh? Don't know that I blame you. Must be a wonderful feeling to wake up in the morning and think, I don't have a thing to do today. It's a feeling I've never had." He laughed comfortably.

"Oh, but I'll have plenty to do," she insisted. "Plenty. I'm going to do the things I've been putting off all these years. I'm going to read and travel and—oh, everything. Don't think for a minute that I'll be bored. Why, I've a whole lifetime to catch up with and I'm going to do it while I still can."

He looked at her curiously. "You've never told us your age, of course. All I know is you've been here twenty-five years, made a fine place for yourself, and now you're retiring. And you don't look over forty. I'd expected you to stick around another twenty years."

She made no reference to her age. "I want to prove to myself that life can be something more exciting than coming to the office at nine every day, getting off letters, dictation, interviewing, phoning, and leaving at five."

"You'll find travel possibilities limited right now," he reminded her. "There's a war on, you may have heard."

"What have you done about replacing me, Mr. Swift?"

"I have someone coming in the day after tomorrow."

"If she needs instructions, don't hesitate to call me. You're sure you can count on her?"

"Pretty sure. Of course it's a woman's privilege to change her mind."

"Not in business it isn't," Marion put out her hand. "Goodbye," she said. "It's been a wonderful twenty-five years." She walked quickly through the outer office where the stenographers sat, and looked neither to the right nor to the left until she was in the city street.

In less than an hour she opened the door of the comfortable apartment where she had lived, alone except for a maid, for eight years. "Henrietta," she called, and Henrietta came trotting from the kitchen. "We're unemployed," Marion told her gaily. "We have the whole world before us."

"Yes'm," Henrietta said dubiously. "What you gonna do with yourself?"

"Why, I'm going to clean my desk and answer some letters that have been lying around for months, and—oh, I may take a trip. I haven't decided. But I'm free!"

Marion looked at her rather blankly. Then she hung up her coat and proceeded to the spinet desk and got to work. When she had sorted and discarded, she was startled to find that the entire job had taken only twenty minutes. That was strange, surely; she had been dreading the task for ages. She started to look over some of the letters she must answer. They were all more than a month old, and out of date now. There wasn't one person to whom she could find anything to say. Write her old friends she was reticent? Maybe they'd think that was only her way of putting it, that she'd really been forced out by advancing years. She smiled a little. Many of them were grandmothers now. No, she wouldn't brag about her leisure until she was used to it.

Well, there were a couple of novels lying around that she'd meant to read. She picked one up and read the first page three times before it began to make sense. She put it aside. For some reason she couldn't concentrate. "Henrietta," she said. "Is lunch nearly ready?"

"Yes'm. About ten minutes."

She walked about the apartment straightening a few things. Nothing needed doing, because Henrietta was so meticulous.

Finally lunch was ready. Marion ate in peace. It was totally unlike the crowded drugstore at the noon hour. She told herself that this was no end of an improvement, that she didn't miss the bustle at all, that she was delighted to be away from it. When she finished she glanced at the clock. It was one. Mr. Swift would just be getting back to the office. Suddenly with a gasp almost of terror she rushed to the phone and dialed his number. "This is Marion Wilson," she said—and then didn't know how to go on.

He came to her rescue. "Think you'll feel like coming back tomorrow?" he asked.

"Oh, yes!" she panted. "But—the new girl?"

He chuckled. "You're the new girl, although I wasn't expecting you till the day after tomorrow. Thought you had more endurance. Shame on you!"

Her face was aglow with new hope. Another twenty years, he had said earlier. Twenty more busy years!

Paint File Helps FBI Track Down Criminals

A "National Automotive Paint File" is in use by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist in the solution of many criminal cases involving sabotage, theft of motor vehicles, fraud and hit and run, as well as numerous other types of cases, says a statement from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who describes the work of the FBI laboratory in "Witcombings."

"This file contains material and information which makes it possible in some instances to identify the year, make and model of an automobile from a small fragment of paint removed from a vehicle or found at the scene of a crime," says Mr. Hoover. "In many instances, use of the color classifications of the file in combination with data obtained from microscopic, microchemical, and spectrographic analyses of a paint fragment makes it possible to limit the number of automobiles that have to be considered in an investigation."

"Often a photomicrographic comparison of two fragments of paint can be made, one of known origin, and the other from a questioned automobile which is believed to have been involved in a crime. The two fragments are mounted vertically in juxtaposition, so that their cross sections are observable and the layers of corresponding color are matched one with the other. Such a demonstration makes possible a comparison of the colors of the paint layers in the two specimens, the thickness of the corresponding layers, and the sequence of the colored layers. Observations of this type may be photographed, in color if necessary, and the evidence presented in court."

Survey Shows Women Intend to Stay at Jobs

Two out of every three women war workers will be in the post-war competition for peacetime jobs, according to preliminary returns in a survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Polling women "war job" workers in industrial plants in widely scattered areas of the United States, the survey finds that 71 per cent plan to seek postwar jobs, and only 17 per cent expect to go back to "full-time" housekeeping, while 10 per cent are planning to be married at the end of the war, and 2 per cent expect to go back to school.

Married women, even those with children, like the experience of working and want to continue getting a pay check of their own, the survey finds. The preliminary returns show that 69 per cent of the married women workers want post-war jobs and plan to go after them, while 31 per cent expect to concentrate on their homes after the war emergency is over, the report states.

Elements Differ

The Journal of the New York Botanical Garden says that "definite differences in the amount of starches, sugars, proteins, fats, minerals, and of vitamins as well may be found in plants subjected to different weather conditions, especially at and near the time of harvesting, or even in plants picked at different times of day. When the time comes to harvest fruits and vegetables, particularly vegetables of the leafy type, due consideration should be given to variations in the amount of light. Present results suggest that for good vitamin C values the harvesting of vegetables should not be done before midforenoon, say 10 o'clock, after generally clear weather, or, if it must be done following cloudy days, collection should be made late in the day. Because of the tendency of vegetables, especially those of the leafy type, to lose vitamin C on standing, it would follow that when weather conditions permit, vegetables from the home garden should be freshly picked each day."

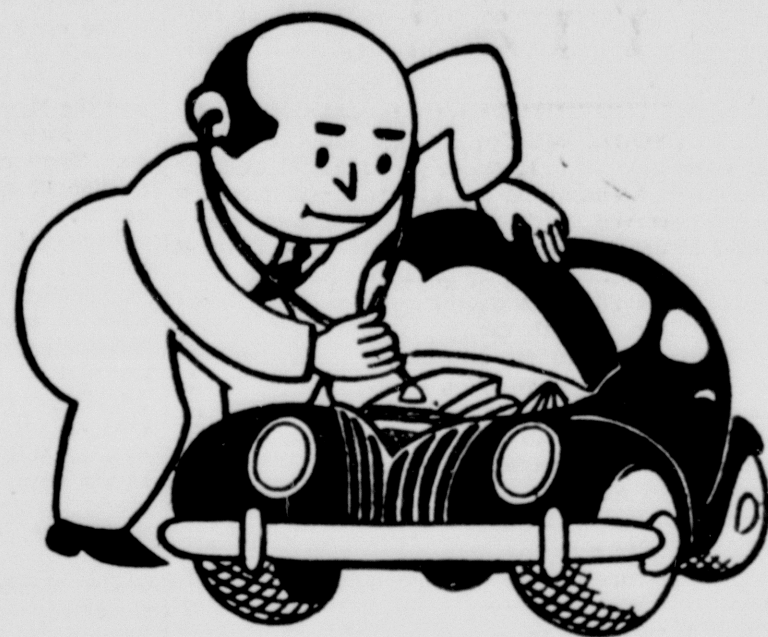

Imperfect Posture

The causes of imperfect posture can range from general muscular weakness to mental instability. Ridicule and negative criticism, for example, can be very detrimental, particularly to the posture of a child. Far better is the use of admiration and constructive criticism to build the self-confidence which is psychologically important in the achievement of good bearing. On the other hand, overconcentration on one sport can present a problem by overdeveloping certain muscles in the body and leaving other muscles undeveloped. The remedy for this is physical exercise that will develop corresponding strength in the weaker muscles. Normally, however, the posture of a growing child will take care of itself if he is not emotionally cramped or forbidden to participate in the various active pursuits of childhood.

Plant Herbs

Plant some herbs. Herbs don't take up much growing space and they add interest to your meals. One or two plants of each variety will give you enough herbs for use all summer and also to dry for the winter.

One of the herbs you will probably want to include is parsley. It's rich in vitamin A and C; so, put it right into foods where it will be eaten. Chives give a delicate onion flavor. For summer drinks and sauces and jellies, you'll want to plant mint. It's good with meats and in soups and salads.

Tucumcari Plans Big Events For Opening of Dam

TUCUMCARI—One of the widest varieties of entertainment ever crowded into one day and night has been arranged for the formal dedication of Conchas Dam and the Arch Hurley Conservancy District here August 9. Ranging from parades and band concerts to magicians, from girl shows to thrilling stunt artists, rodeo events to street dances, each minute has been packed with enjoyment for the thousands of visitors expected to pay homage to the Bureau of Reclamation, Department of Interior, and Corps of Army Engineers officials. And, all events are free.

Dixie Dice and Her Darling Debs have planned a musical stage show second to none for a portion of the evening fun-fiesta. Ralph Dykeman and his Trampoline stars and pyramid tumbler, as featured in Physical Culture Magazine, will enthrall each gap-eyed spectator. Spanish troubadours and senorita singers, torch-singers, and a host of other entertainers from over the Southwest will be on hand to please. Emmett Plummer and his Quadrille horses, 16 of them, each ridden by riders 12 to 17 years of age, is another attraction.

KTNM of Tucumcari will feed the day's program over Mutual's Network. KGNC of Amarillo will move in to offer an almost continuous broadcast of activities originating on Tucumcari streets. Both will carry interviews with federal and state officials, dignitaries and the Hollywood motion picture stars. Newsreel cameramen and press photographers will also record the day and night Fiesta highlights.

A score of cities and towns of New Mexico and West Texas will send top-notch entertainers and bands to keep the day's program moving at a fast pace. All communities are invited to participate in the commemoration of a lake and irrigation project which reclaimed the former dust bowl. U. S. Dever, general Fiesta chairman, has announced. "In fact," he said, "the more communities participating and the more colorful demonstration presented, the better Washington officials will realize how much we treasure their efforts and how much we want more reclamation projects in the future."

People Of The Plains

By J. EVETTS HALEY

When Earl Vandale and his nominating committee brought in their recommendations for the new officials of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, at the recent meeting at Canyon, young blood and a new policy was instituted in the most distinctive and distinguished cultural organization on the Plains. Heretofore, old-timers have led the organization. Thomas P. Turner, O. H. Nelson, T. D. Hobart and other great and noted men have given the organization its drive, character and tone in the past. For many years that distinguished plainsman, classical student, connoisseur of art, teller of tales and zealous lover of life, James D. Hamlin, has been its president. He came out of the Old South steeped in its best traditions, stopped off in Amarillo to visit on his way to the Klondike rush, he once said, and liked the easy ways of the West so well that he has been here ever since.

And though Judge Hamlin belongs to what may be called the second generation of pioneers, no more colorful and scintillating figure ever graced a Panhandle bar, ever presided over its festive boards, or better exemplified that ideal of classic culture that goes back in its roots to Greece. It is not simply by chance, nor yet due to the uncertain whims of a collector, that he has built up the greatest collection of art in the Plains. Cultivated background, inherent taste, and diligent devotion go into the making of a great collection. Then some measure of leisure, study and money complete the circuit of human essentials. Judge Hamlin possessed the first; he expended the last. Now he has given the collection to the museum at Canyon.

In giving this great accumulation of miniatures, silver, tapestries, ceramics and other objects of art, Judge Hamlin has done so with the hope that it may stimulate in the children of the Plains a taste, a high regard, for the best that the artistic heart and hand and mind of man, through the ages, has been able to achieve. It could be dedicated to no better purpose. It is put at the proper place. It will help bring home to the children of the Plains, preoccupied as they and their people have been with the hard physical facts of the frontier, the important fact that those objects which are cherished beyond time are those symbolic of great traditions, sentiment, beauty and art.

With this generous gesture to the past, Judge Hamlin thus ends his term as president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. Stepping in his tracks, a little diffidently at first, modest youth, still comparatively in the son of another pioneer, Newton Harrell, Panhandle ranchman. With him are other young men of renown, taste and ability who carry pioneer names like hall-marks of distinction. Hamlin Y. Overstreet and Harold D. Bugbee. They are serving as vice-presidents, and back of them is a directorate of some 70 men from over the Plains who are insistent that, though the old-timers die, their traditions shall not.

After all, age is a relative thing. The men who punched cows on the JAs under Goodnight will soon be gone, but those of us who knew and admired them will soon be telling their stories to our own grandchildren, and as time runs out, it is to be hoped that they will look back to the "good old pioneer days" when we too were young and gay, and courted grandmas in a Model T, on a dirt road, somewhere down Happy way.

This new policy of youthful leaders, closely attuned to the ideals and traditions of their fathers, is not only sound historical sense but sound biology. And besides their new vigor is the good sound sense of many old-timers yet to guide them.

Oiling Corn Silk Kills Pesky Ear Worm Larvae

The eggs of the ear worm insect are laid on the silks of the new corn. They hatch within three to five days, and the larvae move down the silks of the corn to the ear, eating as they go. They often make the greater portion of an ear of corn unfit for eating.

The treatment most widely recommended is the application of medicinal mineral oil to the tips of the silks of each ear. (Some recommendations advocate a mixture of mineral oil containing 0.2 per cent pyrethrum.) Do not apply the mineral oil directly to the tips of the ear, as this will result in damage to the corn. Application should be made five or six days after the silks first show, just as the silks have started drying at the tip. Do not make application sooner than the third day after the silks appear. Timing is very important in this treatment, because if the oil is applied before pollination has occurred the kernels will not form as they should. If the oil is applied too deep into the silks, it will likewise injure the ear.

About 20 drops of the mineral oil should be injected, using an oil can or an eye dropper. Do not insert the tip of the eye dropper or oil can into the ear. Hold it so that the oil drops only on the silks. The oil covers the silks and kills the larvae.

Another method is to cut the silks seven to eight days after they first show. Be sure and do not cut silks until after pollination has occurred.

Proper Handling Assures Good Homemade Milk

Milk of good flavor and quality from the family cow may be produced in the home, if it is properly handled, say extension dairymen.

First, they suggest that the milk be kept in standard glass milk bottles in the refrigerator or in a bucket or tub of cool water, where refrigeration is not available.

Just after milking, they suggest that the producer pour the milk through three or four folds of a good grade of cheese cloth. A small tin funnel can then be used for getting the milk into the bottles. It should then be capped with standard bottle caps.

For cooling the milk, the bottles can now be placed in a tub of cold water, for it cools more rapidly in this way than if put directly into the refrigerator. Where no refrigeration is available, they advise changing the water in the tub several times daily until the milk is used.

After the milk has stood for about 12 hours, the cream can be removed from the bottles by using a glass siphon tube. This cream may be saved for table use or allowed to sour for butter making. Two quarts of such cream will make about one pound of butter.

Disease-Resistant Seed

The fungi and bacteria that cause some serious diseases of vegetable plants are often carried on the seeds. When the seeds are planted these organisms grow and injure the plant and may destroy the crop or reduce the yield. Gardeners have several simple and effective methods of fighting these seed-borne diseases of garden crops.

Certified, or selected seed, because it has been inspected for any evidence of disease, is usually less likely to carry disease than uncertified seed.

Gardeners can also buy seed which has been treated to kill the seed-borne diseases. Cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, kale, turnip, kohlrabi, broccoli, tomato, and celery seeds are treated with hot water. Seeds of cucumber, squash, muskmelon, pumpkin and watermelon are treated with corrosive sublimate.

To control damping-off, a disease which often kills the seedling plants soon after they sprout, a dust can be mixed with the seeds before they are planted. Some seed firms treat the seeds before they ship them to customers.

Relieve Confusion

An army officer has been quoted as saying that the inevitable beach-head confusion that attends any invasion operation is being greatly reduced by the clearly recognizable identifying marks and colors on all types of boxes and containers of combat supplies put ashore under the guns of the enemy. Service colors for marking overseas shipments have now been standardized. The government also has standardized paints for camouflage purposes and troops have been furnished with a manual which includes a glossary of paints and coatings for specific surfaces, as well as characteristic recommendations for application.

Paper Gas Tanks

Auxiliary paper gasoline tanks, known as jettison tanks because they can be dropped from an aircraft when empty, are reported in use on British fighting aircraft, says Domestic Commerce. The tanks are described as cigar shaped, made in three sections consisting of layers of paper bonded together with an adhesive and moulded over a cast to the required shape. After they have been dried and sandpapered, the three sections are assembled and a band of wood is inserted at the joints. Small metal parts are then added, after which the tank is "doped" and finally coated with silver cellulose paint.

The shortest road to riches is to spend like you were poor.

Women Called Upon To Aid In Fat Campaign

Active participation of every woman in Randall county in the used fats campaign is needed now to help deliver the knock out blow to the Japs.

National reserves of fats and oils are lower than at any time in two years while the demand for munitions, military medicines, opates to ease pain, sulfa ointments and many other military items are at an all-time high and will get still higher as more soldiers are shifted to the Pacific. Increased civilian needs make the situation more serious, he added.

"Every drop of fat that can be scraped from the bottom of frying roasting and boiling pans, every teaspoonful lifted from the top of soups or from melted down fats are needed to help off-set a national deficit," officials emphasized.

This year's goal for used kitchen fats is 250,000,000 pounds. In many instances collections have dropped in larger towns and cities because of meat shortages. To off-set this decrease and go over the top this year, more used fats must come from towns and rural areas where families do their own butchering and have access to more meats.

Used fats should be drained into tin cans and left at county collection points when making trips to town. Any complaints should be referred to the county agent, home demonstration agent or the county fat salvage committee. Any complaints not solved locally should be referred to WFA's district office of

DISCRETION

The works manager of a certain railway company had a reputation among the staff for meanness.

The pet bee in his bonnet was oil and waste. He was always driving home the fact that if every employee was careful with oil and cotton waste, money would be saved.

One day he was having a few words with a very new driver.

"Tell me," he ordered, "what would you do if you were driving one day and you saw an express thundering towards you on the same line?"

The novice thought hard. Then: "I'd grab the oilcan. I'd grab the waste—and I'd jump."

Dr. M. B. Porter of the University of Texas faculty, is rated No. 1 mathematician in the United States.

The custom of presenting the keys of a city goes back to medieval times, when every fortified town in Europe was surrounded by walls and people could only enter or leave the gates.

Worley Writes of Germany

In my report last week I mentioned some of the horrors of the Nazi atrocity camps. Most of the inmates in these camps were political prisoners of various nationalities including anti-Nazi Germans. Apparently, when anyone disagreed with Hitler or opposed him or his policies in any fashion, he or she, and generally with their children, would suddenly disappear from the scene. The Gestapo seemed to work very well indeed in Germany. Everyone in Germany was bound to have known of the existence of these atrocity camps because they discussed them furtively over the backyard fence or in secluded spots. Whether all German people approved of their existence seems to be the subject of debate, but certainly the entire nation is not free from blame in permitting or sanctioning the existence of a government which would stoop to such barbaric depths.

The most notorious atrocity camps were at Buchenwald, Dachau, Belsen and Nordhausen. There were others, of course, but these were the worst.

Now as far as the treatment accorded our own American prisoners of war in the regular Nazi Prisoner of War Camps, there is an international standard which provides for fair and humane treatment. This standard is set up by the terms of the Geneva Convention which provides that all prisoners of war shall be treated in a fair and humane fashion. Both Germany and the United States signed this agreement—Japan did not.

I was about halfway in Germany before the Nazis collapsed and talked to as many American enlisted men and officers as I could find who had been liberated from Nazi prisoner of war camps. It is, of course, impossible to determine exactly how our men were treated in all camps and in all cases, but the following seemed to be the consensus of opinion among the American boys with whom I talked:

They seemed to think that American and British prisoners were treated better by the Nazi guards than prisoners of other nationalities were treated, especially the Russians. There was ample evidence that the Russians and the Germans have a deep seated and more bitter hatred for one another. Consequently the Russian prisoners of war had a tougher time than the American and British. One officer told me a few instances where German civilians tried to kill some of the flyers who had been shot down over Germany, but he also said the Nazi Army tried to prevent such killings. I personally have no idea as yet as to how many of our men were killed by the German civilians during the war. (The Army is at the present time investigating that angle.)

One boy with whom I talked had spent 19 months as a prisoner of the Nazis. He stated that the only food provided by the Nazis for several months was one loaf of bread daily to be divided among 7 men and a bowl of very weak potato soup.

All of our men agreed had it not been for the Red Cross packages which the Swiss Red Cross delivered to the Americans that our men would probably have died of starvation or at best would have been so weakened from malnutrition they would have died from disease. While in Germany, I also heard of the Nazi excuses for the shortage of food in the prisoner of war camps, namely, that food was short all over Germany. At the time I was there however, which was in April, I saw no evidence of extreme hunger or food shortage among the civilian population. It seems to me that had the Nazis been fully interested in complying with the Geneva Convention, at least some of the food apportioned to the civilian population could have and should have been diverted to the Allied prisoners of war.

I have been through both camps over here in America in which were confined Germans and Italians our forces had captured in Europe. There is no question in my mind but what this nation fully complied with the Geneva Convention—in fact many people have the opinion we complied much too well. The Army followed this policy in the hope the enemy would treat our own American captives fully as well.

As pointed out the above opinions seemed to be rather general among the American men with whom I talked. I am informed that the Army is interviewing others and conducting a survey to determine as nearly as humanly possible exactly how all of our men were treated during German captivity, which information I hope will be available soon.

Needless to say, I've never seen a happier bunch of fellows in my life than our boys were when our forces rolled in and set them free. They know, far better than anyone else, the full meaning and blessings of freedom.

HER OPINION

"When does the next train that stops at Manchester leave here?" inquired the resolute widow at the ticket-office window.

"You'll have to wait four hours, ma'am," she was told.

"I think not."

"Well, perhaps you know better than I do, ma'am."

"Yes, and perhaps you know better than I do whether I am expecting to travel on that train myself or whether I am inquiring for a relative who is visiting me and wanted me to call here and ask about it and save her the trouble, because she's packing up her things and expects to take that train herself and not me; and she'll have to do the waiting and not me; and perhaps you think it's your business to stand behind there and try to instruct people about things they know as well as you do, if not better, and perhaps you'll learn some day to give people civil answers when they ask you civil questions, young man; my opinion is you won't!"

With a gasp: "Yes, ma'am."

THE ANSWER

The debate was overheard between some men as to whether it was cheaper to move or pay rent. Opinion being about equally divided, they referred the question to the oldest man they knew.

"Is it cheaper to move or to pay rent, Bill?"

Said Bill: "Well, mates, ye see I ain't in a position to say. I've always moved."

Youth Conference At Ceta Canyon

Pat Brady and Ellen Root were delegates from the Canyon Christian church to the young peoples' conference at Ceta Glen, June 10-16. Rev. Joe Findley was on the conference faculty. The encampment was under the direction of Rev. Halle Gantz of Lubbock and Rev. Lawrence Bridges of Hereford. Miss Stella Tremain, for many years a missionary in Wuhu, China was a special guest of the conference. 107 young people between 15 and 18 years of age were in the encampment.

A similar conference for students 12 to 14 years of age is being held this week under the direction of Rev. Wilbur Mindel of Borger. An adult conference encampment is scheduled for August 5-10.

I WONDER

Now the madam has fought in the war like a man

And proved she can rivet as well as he can.

And worked on the railroad and driven a truck.

And learned how to weld without getting the buck.

Followed trades of the butcher and baker and cop

And dozens of others with nary a flop.

I wonder if, when she returns to her house,

She'll still scream and bolt at the sight of a mouse?

TIME WILL TELL

The landscape architect was showing a woman over a formal garden.

"What's that?" she asked.

The architect told her it was a sundial.

"What's a sundial?"

Whereupon her companion patiently explained how the sun, moving through the heavens, casts a shadow, which is recorded on the dial, indicating the time of the day.

The woman beamed with interest.

"My! What will they be thinking of next?" she exclaimed.

LET GO THE ANCHOR

The vicar prided himself on his oratorical powers. He was describing the downward path of the sinner, and used the metaphor of a ship drifting and going to pieces on the rocks.

A sailor in the audience was deeply interested.

"The waves rush over!" cried the preacher. "Her sails are split! Her yards are going! Her masts are shivering! Her helm is useless. She is driving ashore. There seems no hope! Can nothing be done to save her?"

The sailor rose in his seat, his eyes wide with excitement.

"Let go the anchor!" he shouted.

UP AND DOWN

Officer (as company is temporarily about to vacate trench which has been reported mined): "You two will remain here, and if there is an explosion you will blow a whistle. You understand?"

Private Spuds: "Yes, sorr! Will we blow it going up or coming down, sorr?"

REMINDER

"He was a believer in the uplifting effect of the drama, and now that he had met his twin soul, what could be more natural than that he should take her to 'Othello' to be similarly inspired? And she was. The scene of Desdemona's death beneath the pillows moved her profoundly, as he had expected.

"That reminds me!" she exclaimed. "I must get some loose covers for the cushions in my sitting-room."

HARVEST YOUR USED FAT!

It's Needed More Than Ever Now!

All over the world, food fats are scarce. There is a global shortage of industrial fats and oils essential to victory and peace.

American kitchens, according to War Food Administration, are the "most fertile source" from which to meet 1945 fats and oils requirements. While it takes lots of manpower, toil, sweat, time, gasoline and machinery to cultivate and harvest oilseed crops, it requires little effort to salvage fat in your kitchen.

If you scrape, scoop and skim one pound of used fat every month, your contribution will equal the oilseed yield from eight Victory garden plots planted exclusively to oil crops.

Save every single drop! Turn in your used kitchen grease for cash and extra ration points!

Alfred Friemel Is in Service on Okinawa

Tec 4 Alfred A. Friemel of Canyon is now seeing action on Okinawa Island with the Medical Battalion of Major General Geo. W. Griner's famed 27th Infantry Division.

This veteran outfit landed to the strategic Ryukyuan stronghold on April 9th. They quickly moved into the front lines and blasted important gains in the bitterly defended southern portion of the island.

It is because of the skill, training, and devotion to duty to the men of Lt. Col. William Yuckman's medical battalion that front line troops of the Division are provided with such speedy and expert medical attention. Affording the fighting man the best treatment known to Army medical science, the battalion's motto is, "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

The 26 year old service man has served 37 months overseas. He entered the service in Dec., 1941.

Prior to the Okinawa operation Tec 4 Friemel participated in the Makin, Salpan campaign.

His father is Fred Friemel.

Lt. Lester Smith of Los Angeles, Calif., spent Saturday night visiting friends in Canyon. He was on routine flight and had an overnight stop in Amarillo.

Worley Featured by Life Magazine

Congressman Eugene Worley was featured by Life Magazine this week in a two-page spread. Worley is pictured from the time he starts to work at 8:15 a. m. until he winds up the day at 6:40 p. m.

The spread is part of a section devoted to Congress, the tasks it faces and the inadequate tools with which it has to work. The fact that congressmen have too much to do to adequately inform themselves on all matters of legislation is brought out in the portion given to Worley.

The day the pictures were taken was considered a typical day in the life of Worley. Included in the day's activities were reading the mail, a news conference, attending meeting of agriculture committee, of which Worley is a member; greeting service men and people from home, attending session of House, lunch with Texas delegation, reading the Shamrock Texan, attending meeting of foreign trade subcommittee of which he is chairman, visit to War Department, studying hearings of his subcommittee, and signing mail.

It was brought out in the pictures that the three secretaries in Worley's office answered 281 pieces of mail during the day.

Worley, who is 36 years of age, is serving his third term in the House of Representatives.

Canyon Rotary Club Visited Hereford Club

A new Rotary Club at Hereford received its charter Thursday night. The sixteen charter members celebrated this event by inviting representatives from Panhandle Rotary Clubs to join with them in a John Snider barbecue. More than 175 Rotarians, Rotary Anns and guests were abundantly served at the beautiful City Park club house.

These following groups were present: Canyon, 33; Amarillo, 54; Ralls, 4; Portales, 4; Littlefield, 3; Pampa, 4; Clovis, 7; Canadian, 4. In addition to the charter members from Hereford, several local guests were present.

Soldiers from the Hereford prison camp furnished music during the evening.

John Patton, president of the new club, called the group to order. Clyde Warwick of Canyon led in group singing. Herman Ford of Hereford expressed hearty welcome to the visitors who came to help Hereford celebrate this occasion.

President J. A. Hill, first head of the Canyon Rotary Club, responded. He briefly outlined the accomplishments of Rotary and of individual Rotarians whom he had observed during the past 20 years.

Pinkey Vineyard, president of the Amarillo Rotary Club, expressed appreciation of that club to Hereford, and the fine group which had organized the new club. Jim Farwell, past president of the Amarillo Club, made an instructive talk on the duties, obligations and aims of Rotary. He predicted great achievement for the new club.

District Governor Harris M. Cook of the 127th District, presented Charter 5,986 to the new Club. Hereford made the 60th Rotary club in this district, consisting of 2,850 members. The district comprises approximately one-fourth of Texas. Governor Cook has been working with the Hereford group during the organization period and expressed the greatest pleasure in the fine co-operation of the Hereford business and professional men. He introduced the 16 charter members and their Rotary Anns.

George Black Writes of Experiences When Carrier Franklin Was Hit

George Black writes from Hawaii to his mother, Mrs. Sanford Black, describing his experiences on the Franklin:

"On March 18, Big Ben began launching planes for a strike against Kyushu, Japan. We hit them hard that day. For about three days we had been at our battle stations with no sleep and very little to eat. On the morning of March 19 at 7:07 o'clock the Captain ordered secure-so the crew could eat. When it happened I ran and was one of the first in the chow line on the hanger deck. When the bomb hit I was eating chow. The jar knocked me from my seat clear across the compartment and against the hammocks in a corner. If I had hit the bulkhead, it would have been curtains.

The men immediately began going to their battle stations. I had memorized the shortest way to mine. I started aft and to the port side. After I had gone up to the deck just above the hanger deck something happened.

More and bigger explosions began. The concussion slammed and jammed the hatch I had just gone through. We could not go up or down and couldn't retreat. Fire was in front of me. More explosions caved in the overhead (ceiling). It became red hot from burning airplanes just above us. The concussion knocked out the electric light and the drinking fountain. We found a phone to communicate our misfortune. It was dead. Smoke began to make it impossible to breathe. Some fellows were becoming panicky and exerting themselves. That took more oxygen and they choked. About 15 other fellows and I decided to buck the fire. We did. In another compartment there was a ladder leading to the hanger deck.

We touched the scuttle wheel and burned our hands. Boy, was it hot! Smoke was worse in here. Then God came to our rescue. A rocket ruptured a salt water pipe on the side of the hanger deck. The water poured out onto the hanger deck directly over the scuttle (escape hatch) putting out all that fire and cooling the metal wheel. We turned it and the hatch opened. We knew we didn't have much chance on the hanger deck because of the fires and explosions; but we couldn't stay where we were and suffocate. We worked our way through the hatch. I was next to the last fellow to leave. The last fellow didn't come. I could see only a few feet ahead of me, but I did see light.

It was where a large section of the bulkhead (wall) had been blown out. There were more explosions and fire increased. There I was standing near the water and the fire next to me. As it came closer, I had no choice but to jump. One fellow chose to stay. I gave him my helmet and flash burn ointment. Then I jumped. My Gosh! I had no life jacket! I thought I would never hit the water, and I thought I would never come up when I did. I swam furiously to evade the propellers of the ship. I made it but was too tired to swim any more. I was beginning to go under when a guy grabbed me by the collar. He said I had to stay and keep him company. He had some buoyant object that held us up.

Big Ben was still doing 20 knots. She passed us and kept exploding and burning. She was a flaming lady indeed. We began to sing "Deep in the Heart of Texas." There was no argument because the other fellow was from Waco. We just kept singing and swimming. Several destroyers passed by us. They could not pick us up. They had to help the Big Ben. They dyed the water and threw cork rings into the water. We were so tired that we couldn't swim to them. The tide was carrying us away from the corks toward the land of the rising sun, only a few nautical miles away.

For hours we hung to our little buoyant object. We called it "Little Ben." It was, I believe, a plank of the flight deck. Hours later a destroyer came up over the horizon. We laughed until we saw it turning. Just shortly before dark an airplane spotted us and orbited our position until we were picked up. After the rescue, some one said, "Here, take this. It'll make you feel better." The salt water had momentarily overcome my taste. I drank a cup full in one gulp. Boy, did it burn! It was whiskey. I had a drunk to deal with now. I woke up the next day and stepped outside to the weather deck of the destroyer. To my surprise there was Old Ben chugging along.

The names of ships and destinations that I then went must be kept secret, I think. Anyway, when we came to Pearl Harbor I went back aboard. Everybody thought I was dead. Tommy and I hugged each other for a few moments. We didn't feel like talking much. Then I was left behind. Mom, I regret very much not seeing you, but the Navy had no room for me aboard the ship."

Bugs Work on Some Gardens

M. B. Brown states that bugs practically ruined his fine garden last week. Fleas attacked the vegetables first, and were followed by a bug which was very destructive.

Other farmers report that there seems to be fewer bugs this year because of the continued dry weather. There are practically no poisons on the market because of restrictions in manufacture.

It is remarkable just how good the gardens are this year, states observers, in view of the continued dry weather. Practically every farm has a sufficient amount of water for irrigation, and good gardens are being raised.

A survey indicates that Victory Gardens in Canyon are not so large as in other years, but practically every home has a garden which is helping out with the food situation.

Poultry is another item of food which is assisting in the food situation. Every farm home in Randall county and a large majority of the citizens of Canyon are assisting in the food situation with their flock of chickens.

Every town has citizens and characteristics that make it different from all other towns in the world.

For example, take Ranger—not during the great oil rush but years after the boom had ended.

Ranger was the home of Rural Murry, holder of the world's record for a mile on a motorcycle over a dirt track; and of a mayor renowned for his skill at barbecuing, especially the sauce, made by his own secret formula; and of men who followed the dogs in a wolf-hunt, not on horseback but in an automobile, jolting across the rough and rugged terrain of the ranch country.

Also Ranger was the home town of Buster Mills, one of the all-time gridiron greats of the University of Oklahoma and the hero of an East-West game in San Francisco, his field goal being the only score of the afternoon.

It was while at Oklahoma U. that Mills performed a feat that outdid Frank Merriwell himself! A track meet and a baseball game were in progress simultaneously. Near the end of the meet, the coach saw that the Sooners could win if they could place in the javelin throw—but he had no javelin hurler. He hastened to the nearby diamond and, while Oklahoma was at bat, Mills went over and, in baseball togs, tossed the javelin for enough to win third place, and the meet; then went back to the diamond and tripled with the bases full to win the ball game!

Ranger was the home of a Marine who was wounded in the Nicaraguan jungle by Sandino's men; and the town also boasted of a fireworks expert. This latter prepared all the elaborate pieces of pyrotechnics for the Fourth of July celebrations in the baseball park. But his greatest claim to fame was what he did, almost!

Back a great many years ago, a group of Navy planes was circling the globe. When they had crossed the United States, their history-making flight would be over. It was learned that they would pass over Ranger, so the fireworks expert prepared a salute. When an observer came into his shop and yelled, "They're coming!" he ran out and without even looking up, touched off the charge. It exploded high in the sky, so close to one of the planes that it rocked in the blast. The pilot had crossed oceans, deserts, swamps, and then was almost wrecked over Ranger!

And I'll bet your town has interesting people and has witnessed interesting events, too.

Major Littlefield, Regent of the University of Texas, and donor of the famous Wrenn library, died within two years of its opening.

Blue Panio grass, a native of Australia, was first planted in the United States in 1935, at the experiment station at Chillicothe.

Werewolves Characterized By Vicious Nature

Werewolves symbolize a traditional manifestation of depraved, carnivorous appetites. Belief in werewolves still exists in some parts of Europe today, and a werewolf is generally thought to be a man or woman transformed into a wolf or some other vicious animal. Frequently the individual actually believes himself to have been transformed into an animal.

In Scandinavia and England werewolves seem to have been identified with outlawry and with social outcasts who were subject to bestial fury. To the Slavs and Bulgars, a man's soul actually enters the wolf for a time. When his soul returns to its human body the victim is exhausted and aches as though he had experienced violent exercise. This form is connected with a popular belief in vampires.

Werewolves seem to have been particularly active in France during the 16th century. Significantly, however, Encyclopaedia Britannica tells of French court cases in 1589 and 1603 in which convicted werewolves were treated as insane and not as metaphysical degenerates.

Dry Shampoo Restores Life to Window Shades

Non-washable window-shades can be freshened and often give another year of usefulness by applying a dry shampoo. To cleanse shades this way, start by taking them down and dusting them on both sides.

For dry suds, boil one part of bar or packaged soap with five parts of water and cool until the mass jells. Then whip with an egg beater until a dry lather is formed with no liquid at the bottom of the bowl.

Apply the dry suds with a soft cloth or brush or sponge to a small section of the shade. Rub lightly and then wipe the suds off. Wipe the area again with a cloth wrung almost dry in clear warm water. Rinse until all suds and soil have been removed and wipe with a dry cloth. Continue until the entire surface has been cleaned. Reverse the shade, and clean the other side the same way. Always overlap a little when applying suds to avoid streaking.

Embattled Islands

Originally known as the Lucayos from the aborigines occupying the islands, the Bahamas were held by Spain at the beginning of their history. Having shipped most of the native population for work in other colonies, the Spaniards moved out and the English moved in in 1629. Spain later decided to claim the islands by right of discovery and ousted the English. A period of disorder followed—the English trying to regain their foothold, French forces making an occasional raid, and pirates making themselves at home regardless of the international tug-of-war. In 1718 another English settlement took root with the aid of troops, and in 1787 the Bahamas became a possession of the British crown through purchase of the rights granted the old lords proprietors. As every schoolboy knows, it was through the Bahamas by his landing on San Salvador (Watling island) that Columbus first entered the New World.

Wrong Title

Just as Panama hats come from Ecuador and not from Panama, balsam of Peru is an exclusive product of El Salvador. That Salvadoreans should be annoyed at this appellation is natural: "Why," they ask, "should the resin of a tree that grows solely on our shores be known to the world as coming from Peru?" Some believe that the term was given through a misinterpretation of the Indian word "piru" meaning pottery vessel and not the fabled kingdom of Peru. It is, however, more generally thought that the false name originated from the fact that the product was confused with Peruvian goods when galleons bore it from El Salvador to Peru to be transhipped to Spain.

Appreciate Carrots

Although women don't use carrot tops now as ornaments for hats, as they did in the middle of the 16th century when carrots were first brought to England by the Flemish, we have learned to appreciate carrots more and more as a food, and have found them a rich storehouse for vitamins and minerals. In group one—the green and yellow vegetables group of the basic seven—carrots furnish vitamin A, so important in growth and essential to normal vision. When butter and cream are scarce, it is more important than ever that plenty of yellow vitamin A vegetables are eaten daily.

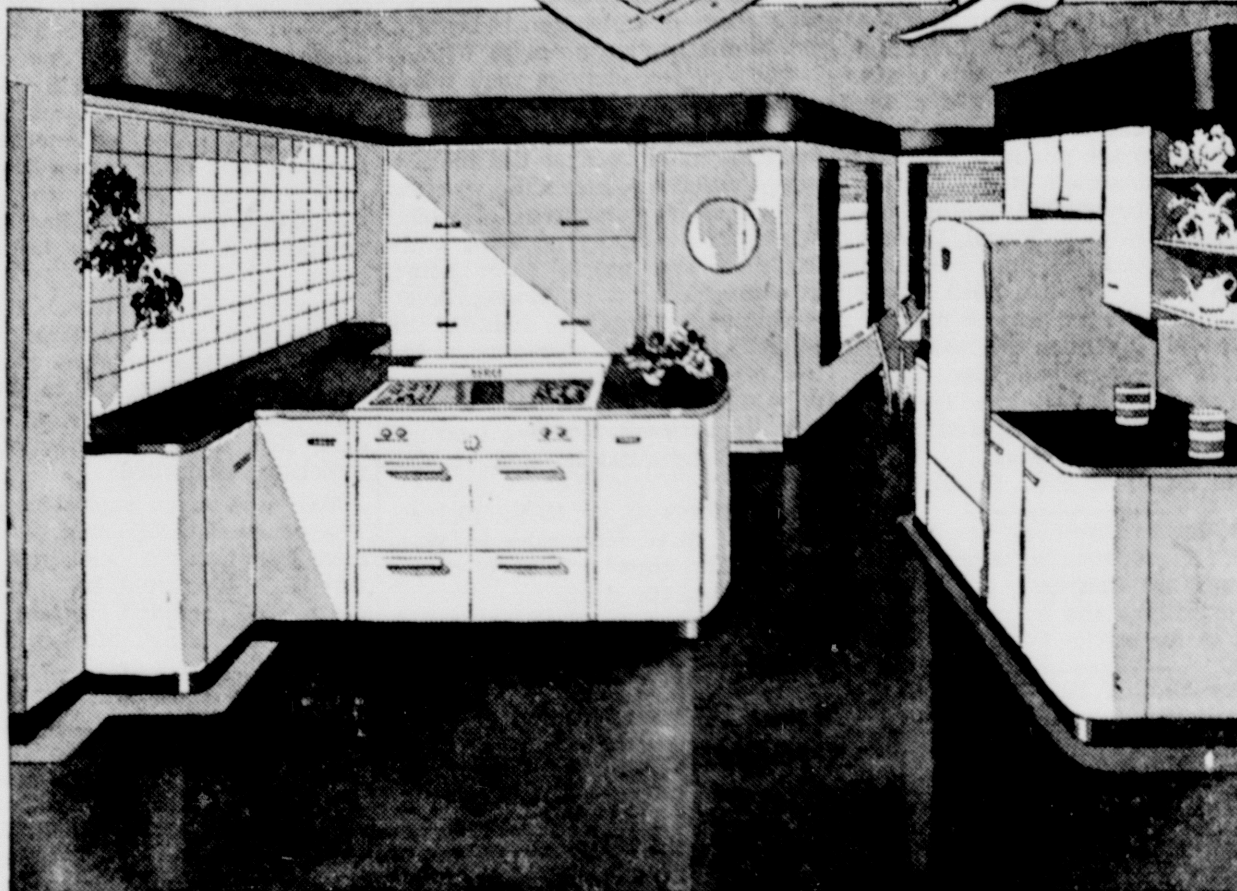

Rats Outnumber Humans

The rat population in most cities outnumbers the civilian population. Continuous campaigns to keep rats from multiplying too rapidly are necessary in the majority of cities.

Over 20,000 rats were killed in the city dumps of a large western city during the first month of a campaign inaugurated by the U. S. biological survey.

Rats are natural enemies of man. They do $200,000,000 damage in the United States annually through their consumption of foodstuffs alone, and it has been estimated that it costs $2 a year to maintain each rat.

Cannot Buy Canned Milk With Red Points Says OPA

To make sure that supplies of canned milk continue to be available for infants and other consumers to whom it is an essential food, institutional and industrial users are no longer permitted to use their red points for canned milk. District OPA Food Rationing Officer has announced.

This restriction was necessary because increased use of canned milk by industrial and institutional users has resulted in short supplies in many areas.

Jap Factories Afire, and Worst Is Yet to Come

Repeated obliteration bombing attacks on Jap war production centers from the Marianas Islands coupled with air base possibilities of Okinawa make the B-29 Superfortress spotlight news. The Marianas—Saipan, Tinian, Guam are main air bases—are around 1500 miles from the Tokyo area; Okinawa is about 325 miles from Kyushu, Japan's southernmost homeland island—easy fighter range and a distance that requires so much less gasoline than the bomber flight from the Marianas that bomb tonnages can be raised considerably. An example of what the B-29 can carry is shown above: all those bombs waiting to be loaded in the single Superfortress behind them. At upper left is Maj.-Gen. Curtis E. LeMay of Lakewood, O., chief of the Marianas-based 21st Bomber Command. At upper right, a B-29 flight engineer at his complex control board; he operates engine controls and basic flight system, but can be overridden at any time by pilot or co-pilot.

Here is a cut-away drawing of the B-29, showing locations of crew stations in nose, center, and tail sections. These stations are under air pressure during high altitude flight and are partitioned with pressure bulkheads. A tube-like tunnel spans bomb bays and permits access between control cabin and gunners' mid-section compartment during flight. From the Marianas to Tokyo and back takes around 14 hours.

Children Should Be Protected During Summer

This is the season when dysentery, diarrhea and "summer complaint" are most prevalent throughout the State, and Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has issued a warning to parents of young children regarding the prevention of these diseases.

"The chief causes of these intestinal diseases are impure milk, water and food; allowing a child to become overheated; using too much sugar and cream in the diet; and under- or over-feeding," Dr. Cox said. "For the young infant, mother's milk is usually the safest food; however, if other milk must be used, the supply should be clean and pure. Water should be free of impurities, and is safest when boiled and cooled before drinking. All foods should be fresh and clean, and leftovers should be properly refrigerated to prevent spoilage."

Dr. Cox said definitely that when a feeding formula for infants is used it should be prescribed by a physician and then prepared with extreme care, especially in regard to cleanliness and refrigeration. Babies should be fed at regular intervals and on a definite schedule. Their stomach and bowels can become easily upset if they are fed haphazardly whenever they happen to be fretful or restless.

"If diarrhea develops, consult a physician at once," Dr. Cox advised. "This so-called 'summer complaint' can become a very serious menace to your baby's health, if not an actual threat to his life."

The State Health Officer declared that with dysentery, as with many other diseases, the fly is an agent of transmission, and every home should be well screened and free of flies.

GOT HIS SHARE

Just before a recent North African battle was begun, the commanding officer shouted: "The Germans are coming, men, but we're outnumbered four to one, so do your stuff."

Old Joe, a Kentucky mountaineer, began to blaze away, but in about five minutes he stopped and leaned his rifle up against a rock.

"What's the matter?" asked the officer.

"Well, I got my four," replied Joe.

An Italian general was addressing his troops.

"The Australians are approaching," he shouted, "and I want you to stand firm and fight to the last. To help, each man shall be given a good stiff drink."

"Shall I get you a drink, sir," whispered an officer.

"Good gracious, no," whispered back the general. "The darn stuff might go to my legs and reduce my speed!"

OPA Sets Ceiling Prices on Government Surpluses

Commodities declared surplus by the government are subject to price control, the District OPA Price Division announced today, and cautioned buyers against paying exorbitant prices for these items.

"The buying of these surpluses is rapidly becoming big business and the public should know that they are subject to price control when sold by the government and its agencies or by private persons." The Price Division pointed out, also, that a separate ceiling is usually set for sales to dealers and for sales to purchasers.

As each commodity is declared surplus by the government, the Office of Price Administration sets specific ceiling prices to prevent them from getting out of line with commodities sold through regular trade channels.

REVENGE

Walking around the barracks, the colonel noticed a long queue of men waiting outside the stables. Each held a lump of sugar.

"I'm glad to see you love animals so much," he remarked to one recruit. "I suppose the horse you're giving the sugar to is the pet of the regiment?"

"Not 'arf, sir," replied the recruit. "He's the one that kicked the sergeant."

Two little sardines were swimming aimlessly in San Diego Bay. One suggested, "Let's go up to San Francisco for the week end."

"Oh, no," objected his companion. "It's much too long a swim."

"We could go by train," ventured the first sardine.

"What! And be jammed in like a couple of soldiers!"

As a Sidney, Texas, man stepped out of his truck, he was struck by a passing car and tossed high in the air. Just before his head struck the pavement his pocket caught on the high truck door handle and held him suspended in the air, saving his life.

No two person's finger prints are identical.

Early morning hours are the most critical time of day during an illness, because all the activities of the body—including heat production—are lessened. Therefore shock, such as cold, may cause death.

Over a month after Lee surrendered at Appomattox, the last battle of the Civil War was fought near Brownsville, Texas, May 13, 1865.

A telephone on the road to Mandalay

Telephone in hand, a Chinese soldier reports the results of a mortar barrage against retreating Japanese troops in North Burma.

As Allied forces fight nearer Japan from many directions, telephone factories must keep right on working to supply the complex equipment they need.

Of course, the end of the German war brings closer the day when everyone can get a telephone without delay. But the demands of the Japanese war mean that that day is still many months off. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Don't Worry About Us! We'll do it!"

THEY tell us that the fat salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

Our country has to have one hundred million more pounds of used fats this year over last. And we're the people who must save it.

We've rolled up our sleeves! We'll save every drop and bit it is possible to scrape—and keep on doing it till the last Jap is licked.

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, such as meat trimmings and table scraps, in a bowl. Melt down when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can. Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you four cents and two red points for every pound. Your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent can give you full particulars.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

Egg Protein Efficient For Building Body

Every sealed, sanitary egg contains a yolk and a white filled with nourishing foodstuffs. The protein of both the yolk and the white are efficient for building and mending body tissues.

Twelve of the 13 minerals needed by the human body are found in the edible portion of the egg, largely in the yolk. The iron content of the yolk is high in comparison with other foods and the fact that this iron is associated with copper in both the white and yolk, makes the iron most available for blood formation, reminds Miss Hazel Bratley, extension nutritionist.

Eggs are important sources of most of the essential vitamins. And as with the minerals the yolk is the richer in health-giving vitamins. These vitamins include riboflavin, which is essential for health and vigor; thiamin, also called B1, which steadies nerves; niacin, which helps in preventing and curing pellagra; vitamin K, an anti-hemorrhagic factor; vitamin A for healthy body tissue and vitamin D for promoting the best use of calcium and phosphorus. Truly an egg is a bargain in food value at almost any price.

Powerful New Sunlamp Tans Skin Rapidly

Capable of converting any room into a "beach at home," an electric lamp being manufactured is so rich in ultraviolet energy that it tans human skin three times faster than Old Sol in midsummer.

Only five minutes exposure is required to mildly redden the untanned skin of a person of average complexion who basks 24 inches from the lamp. To get the equivalent coloring, one would have to sit under a July sun at the Jersey seashore for 15 minutes.

Because its base is the same type and size as bases for regular household incandescent bulbs, the sunlamp can be screwed into any regular light socket operating on standard alternating current electricity. But for convenience in aiming and in handling, a simple adjustable portable holder for the lamp is recommended.

Safety Record

Although railroads are handling a greater amount of high explosives on account of the war than ever before, not a single railroad employee lost his life in 1944 as a result of accidents in connection with the transportation of explosives. Seven accidents due to the transportation of explosives took place in 1944. These resulted in only one person being injured and a total property loss of $75,440. One accident took place in connection with the transportation of fire works, while six accidents resulted from the transportation of military explosives. In the past 11 years, there has been only one fatality resulting from accidents in connection with the transportation of explosives and that one took place in 1939.

Dangerous Cargo

In connection with the transportation of great quantities of dangerous articles, other than explosives, handled by the railroads in 1944, two persons were killed and 40 injured. Those two fatalities resulted from accidents in connection with the handling of gasoline. Accidents in connection with the movement of various dangerous articles other than explosives totaled 990 in 1944. Of this number, gasoline accounted for 178, electrical storage batteries, 170; crude oil, 138; sulphuric acid, 72; nitric acid, 46, and naphtha, 30. Property damage in connection with fires and explosions resulting from such accidents totaled $568,283 compared with $1,128,150 in 1943, when there were 966 accidents and six fatalities.

Safe in Feed

Well over 700,000 tons (14,000,000 bags) of commercially mixed feed containing urea as an ingredient were fed to ruminants in the United States during the past year with satisfactory results, according to a statement compiled by a special committee selected to review technical and practical backgrounds of urea feeding. Extensive studies at leading agricultural colleges and experiment stations in the United States demonstrate without exception that urea, in scientifically safe amounts, is properly assimilated, the committee said. It can efficiently replace a limited portion of the normal protein in the diet of such ruminants as dairy cows, growing heifers, steers and range cattle.

Sandpapering Shine

Where clothes' shine results from wear, sandpaper's abrasive action may raise a garment's nap again. However, the remedial effect will be only temporary and the fabric will be permanently weakened. Light scorch effects may be removed by sandpaper, whereas deeper ones will be impossible to remove. And an undesirable weakening of the fabric which may develop into a hole simply cannot be avoided where sandpaper has been used. Removal of heavy scorch is generally not attempted even by professional cleaners. They can, however, often successfully treat the shine caused by faulty pressing at home. Often, too, light scorches can be removed by means of an oxidizing agent.

Farm Safety Will Be Studied in a National Scope

A farm safety check-up by every farm family in the nation is the goal of National Farm Safety Week, as proclaimed by President Truman for July 22-28.

Calling attention to the fact that the skill and labor of America's farmers is a vital factor in winning the war, President Truman said: "I request all persons and organizations concerned with agricultural and farm life to do everything in their power to educate farm people in the proper precautions by which they may eliminate farm hazards . . . and I further urge that farm people everywhere observe National Farm Safety Week by making safety checks in their homes and on their farms."

Following President Truman's proclamation, agricultural leaders throughout the nation endorsed the second observance of National Farm Safety Week, which was inaugurated in 1944 by the National Safety Council.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said: "The success attained by the nation-wide observance of Farm Safety Week last year . . . has been gratifying. . . . Agencies of the Department will again lend all possible assistance."

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said: "It is imperative that both manpower and property losses due to farm accidents be materially reduced. The results obtained thru observance of National Farm Safety Week in 1944 clearly demonstrate that this is an effective means of minimizing such losses."

Among farm leaders who have pledged cooperation in the work of National Farm Safety Week are Edward S. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; James G. Patton, president of National Farmers' Union; and A. S. Goss, master of the National Grange.

"President Truman's suggestion that farm people make a safety check in their homes and on their farms, if followed, will be the greatest single step that can be taken toward reducing accidents on farms," Maynard H. Coe, director of the Farm Division of the National Safety Council, said.

Mr. Coe suggested that individuals and organizations center their attack on falls, which occur in the farm home more frequently than any other type of accident; on burns, which usually rank about second in importance; on educating farm workers in the proper handling of farm machinery, animals and fire-arms.

Mr. Coe said that the importance of safe driving should be emphasized because figures show that highway accidents annually kill thousands of farm residents.

"There are many other types of accidents which contribute to farm losses in time, material, and manpower," Mr. Coe said, "but a safety check-up during National Farm Safety Week will pave the way for the elimination of hazards that in themselves are the greatest drain on farm manpower."

What about travel?

Now, you may naturally ask, "Won't it be a little easier to get accommodations?" . . . "Won't it be a little more comfortable to travel?"

We of the Santa Fe would like to hold out some hope to our friends who have good reasons for taking a trip, but who find it difficult to do so.

We would like to give those who do travel all the little niceties of service that are part of the Santa Fe tradition.

Bigger Traffic Loads

The stubborn facts are that the traffic to our Pacific ports of war is stepping up instead of letting down!

This means, in the war days to come, there will be more passenger and freight traffic—new loads and greater loads and less space for civilian travelers than ever on Santa Fe rails.

In The Meantime

Santa Fe facilities have been enormously increased—bigger yards; more freight Diesels; centralized traffic control at key points; and improved shop tools and practices which keep our locomotives rolling.

In peacetime these increased facilities will enable us to provide better service than ever. But in the meantime, the stuff needed to lick Japan is top priority.

So—again we ask, "Unless your trip is essential, can't you put it off until we have a little better opportunity to serve you in the traditional Santa Fe manner?"

How long will it take to beat JAPAN?

*One Year? Three Years? Five Years? Look at these Facts...
From the Army and Navy. Then Figure it Out for Yourself!*

In spite of Midway, Bougainville, Tarawa, Saipan, Leyte, Manila, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, and all the other American victories, Japan now controls an area and population far larger than the United States, and with many natural resources greater than ours.

Her home islands are industrialized and organized to the last rivet, the last kilowatt of power, the last pair of human hands.

Japan can put in the field over 4,000,000 well-trained, battle-hardened troops, many with ten years of war behind them. This force is twice as large as all the German armies which defended France, the low countries and the Western front of the Reich against the combined armies of the United States, Britain, Canada and the Free French. Back of these soldiers are more than 70 million civilians on the Jap home front, firmly indoctrinated in emperor worship—every man, woman and child ready and eager to die for the man they believe is a god.

Japan is fighting on "interior" lines. It's true that its fleet is now much smaller than ours. But never forget that the U. S. Navy has a much bigger job to do.

The Japs have stated, and no thinking man or woman doubts it, that they are prepared to sacrifice 10,000,000 men to hold their empire. To the Japanese, life is cheap. The emperor and the state mean everything—the individual, nothing.

If the war were to end tomorrow, Japan would have put the seal on a conquest greater than Napoleon's.

"But," you say, "the war with Japan won't end tomorrow."

Well, what about it? Will it end "tomorrow," or next month or next year, for you? Are you planning to quit your war job, stop your blood donations, slacken your Bond buying, use more gas, have more fun, ease up generally?

Before you do, remember that many a gallant American boy, now vibrant with the breath of life, will die at the hands of the Japs.

How many?

Thousands? Certainly. Hundreds of thousands? Probably.

Well, how many?

That's up to you.

How you can help

- 1 Keep that war job!
- 2 Keep buying Bonds!
- 3 Keep doing all your country asks!
